HAMILTON'S ONE GREAT AMBITION

It is to Beat Record Made by Paulhan for a Continuous Cross Country Flight.

HIS IS LONGEST IN AMERICA

Glean Curtiss Ungrudgingly Says He Is the Best Flier in the World.

New York, June 14.-Charles K Hamilton, the young aviator who yes-terday flew to Philadelphia and return, is today looking for a more urial space to conquer.

Hamilton is known to have one great ambition. It is to beat the rerord Paulhan established for a continuous cross-country flight. That 117 ales without a stop made by the French aviator in his journey from In London to Manchester still stares the ambitious American in the face. Hamilton believes he would have bettered his mark of yesterday had not trouble developed with his spark plugs compelling his untimely descent in the marshes when nearing this city on the return trip and preventing his making a circuit around the city which would have added some 46 miles to his journey's length. To Hamilton, however, belongs the henot of having first flown forward and backward across country between two big cities in one day and the satisfaction of having accomplished in 86-mile trip exactly on schedule time. New world's feats, both these. The record for longest cross-country flight in America is also Hamilton's by his yesterday's performance. His total distance to Philadelphia and return was 175 miles as again the 150 miles Eurtiss flew from Albany to New York in the next longest American flight.

Paulhan's flight from London to Manchester heat it only by 11 miles and a recent flight in France by Henry and a recent ingar in France by Henry Farman by but two miles.

Hamilton, according to revised of-ficial figures, was in the air 3 hours and 34 minutes, maintaining an average speed from New York to Philadelphia of 46.82 miles an hour-and from Philadelphia to New York of 51.36 miles an hour-

SOME EARLY EXPERIENCES.

Not the least amazing thing about Hamitun's hight is the fact that this young aviator of whom Gleren H. Curtiss may nightly across whe fact the hamiten the world. I think, made his first dight in a real aeropiane on Nov. 25, last. But he had had a long training in the air and had already acquired that fearlessness, polse and knowledge of the air curvents, which speedily placed him in the front rank of the world's aviators. His mother, now Mrs. H. Beaudette, tells many stories of her boy's early experiments. sorie of her boy's early experiments is New Britain, Conn. where Charles was born 29 years ago. When but a little chap, he smashed his mother's best parasol by using it as a parachute in a flight from the upper door of a barn.

Not at all discouraged, the lad began experiments with kites of all sorts and sizes. Then, not being able to lift himself off the ground, he compromised on a sail wagon with which he ran ever the grocer's cart. His mother, who admits that she sympathized with Charles desire to fly, paid the grocer's bill with never a thought of resorting to the maternal slipper.

Then came at last the day when the boy really found himself aloft. A balloonist was giving an exhibition in lown and the boy begged for a flight and got it. That flight appears to have been the starting point in his later career—he realized instinctively that he has found his life work.

Hamilton has reached his present eminence in his profession, not without more than the usual number of close calls that come to every man whose work is in the air. But he is a little chap—he weighs only 110 pounds—aad he is wiry, quick and resource-fail. Men who have worked with him declare that he fails as nochalantly as does a cat, always right side up with care. While working with Israel Bandiow in his experiments with the giding boxkite arrangement, he fell 63 fanner of the aeroplane, he fell 63 fanner of the aeroplane down the courts for its rights in this matter.

FIRST BAD FALL.

FIRST BAD FALL.

One of his first bad falls was at Ormond Beach. Fla., while using a Ludlow glider. He was 300 feet from the ground, being drawn by an automobile at 30 miles an hour, when something went wrong. He came down like a stone, but when his glider struck the ground, his friends found that the nervy, cool-headed little chap had in the first seconds of that sickening drop climbed to the upper plane of his glider. The framework below broke his fall and he was only stunned. The only peerishness he exhibited in connection with the accident was due to the fact that he had lost a good cigar somewhere on the trip down.

Since then he has been converted to cigarettes. They steady his nerves, he says. There is always a piece of lighted punk fastened to the framework of the machine, in reach of the aviator's face when he is flying. It has to be within reach of his face, for one tannot attend to eight or ten levers and light matches at the same time, while flying 50 miles an hour.

UP 14,000 FEET.

UP 14,000 FEET.

Hamilton's most exciting session with a dirigible balloon was some 14,000 feet above Paterson. N. J. While making an ascent there, the ballast fell off and his big dirigible promptly pointed its mose toward the sky and shot upward like a projectile for two miles. Hamilton climbed into the rigging and was trying to open the escape valve when the gas bag burst. After about a mile of sheer drop, the torn silk shaped that and the aviator landed as lightly as a leaf.

Hamilton's famous neroplane glide, Hamilton's famous neroplane glide, with which he has startled spectators to many times was discovered by actional. One day while the aviator was him at a considerable height, the man at a considerable he must drop, with that almost with that a short startle he man at a considerable he man at a considerable he man at a sharp angle, gaining instead of losing momentum as he went. Near the atth he threw the forward planes up again, rose gracefully and then settled to earth without a jar. He had discovered the glide. Many of Hamitton's friends have predicted that he will use this glide once too often and this prophesy came near fulfillment at Seattle a few months ago. The aviator was flying over Lake Washington when he decided to glide down to the surface of the lake, skim along like a skipping stone for a few rods and then go up again. He came down all right, but he miscalculated his distance and plunged into the lake. But again his marvelously cool head had again his marvelously cool head had saved him. He had climbed to the top of the machine when he saw that he had miscalculated.

YOUNG AERONAUT'S

Lower Manhattan by suddenly appearing in his airship flying across the Hudson river and then attempting to land his craft in City hall park.

Owens found that landing had its elements of hazard as well as those of flying. His dirigible became unmanageable in the air current between the City hall and the county court house, and the frame-work of the ges bag bumped a chimney on the county court house, bending the frame and putting the propeller out of business. Owens threw out a rope and tried to land, but the gas bag shot upward and the dangling rope eluded a crowd of onlookers, the aeronaut and his unmanageable dirigible floating away in the direction of Brooklyn.

Owens made a test trip of 10 miles with his dirigible this morning from Bellevile, N. J., to Passaic and return.

Owens' helpless dirigible, gradually rising, floated across the East river and when nearly over the City hall in Brooklyn apparently reached a layer of still air. He hovered for some time directly over the Brooklyn business section and then began a slow drift toward the Long Island interior. Owens concluded this morning's flying ventures when his airship landed in a shade tree in the Busnwick section of Brooklyn. Owens lowered the anchors which caught in the branches of the tree and relief parties were summoned and ladders were raised to take off the aeronaut. the direction of Brooklyn.

GARY WANTS CATS.

Chicago. June 14.—The United States Steel corporation at Gray want cats. The demand for cats is because of rats infesting the plant. For months every trap has been tried but without effect. The final blow came when rats got tangled up in the great dynamoes which gives power to the blast furnace mill. This tied the works up for several thousand resulted in the loss of several thousand dollars. Gary was hunted in vain for stray cats, and, as a last resort, an advertisement was inserted in a Gary paper.

With the same reckless deviltry of spirit that marked his hold-up of a Fourth North street car three months ago. Joe Davis last night made a clean escape from the custody of the county jail. After a search of the night and a day, the sheriff's office is still without a clue to the whereabouts of the missing prisoner.

Davis was being held awaiting his preliminary hearing on a charge of highway robbery. He was charged with the hold-up of a Fourth North avenue car, and his alleged escapade and capture were as sensational as his escape. Armed with a tiny .22 caliber rifle, he is said to have held up the car, taking the notorman's cap to collect the money which the passengers were forced to handlover? The car was held up near Fourth North and Fifth West streets, within haif a block of Davis's home. After leaving the car, and while going to his home Davis had in bravado fashion shot at a dog. The gun report aroused neighbors, who, looking out, say Davis still wearing the motorman's cap, and when the police looking out, saw Davis still wearing the motorman's cap, and when the police arrived in response to the call, Davis was pointed out as the suspictoned hold-up man. met inthe assembly hall this morning for the last meeting of the Scandinavian reunion in honor of the introduction of the gospel in the Scandina vian countries 60 years ago. Many of the visiting Saints had returned to their homes, but many had remained for the last gathering, and that they enjoyed the meeting was evident by the enthusiasm displayed by speakers and the attention with which they were followed by audience. One of the pleasant features of the meeting was an address by George Smith, a son of Presiden Joseph F. Smith, in the Swedish language. Elder Smith has filled a mis sion to Sweden, and he spoke language quite well. Another feature was a duet by Mrs Emma Lerdal Hegge and Mr. Fieldbo accompanied by Miss Levan Johnson on the organ, They rendered the beautiful hymn "O My Father," in truly artistic manner.

During the meeting a cablegram was read from Copenhagen, signed by Andrew Jenson and Oluf J. Anderson. It was as follows:

"Copenhagen, June 14, 1910, at 10 "President Anthon H. Lund and the "President Anthon H. Lund and the thousands of Scandinavian Saints gathered in Salt Lake City, Utah. At this hour it is exactly 60 years since Erastus Snow, John E. Forsgren, and George P. Dykes landed in Copenhagen. In behalf of ourselves, eq-laborers, and co-religionists in the 'Old North,' we send greetings and congratulations."

The meeting was called to order by President Anthon H. Lund, who sug-gested that all the speeches be brief.

ELDER JOHN LAWRENCE. Elder John Lawrence was the first speaker. He expressed his appreciation of the privilege of meeting with his brethren and sisters in the Church, on this anniversary of one of the great events in the history of the Church. He said the gospel was the greatest blessing that had ever come to him, and he prayed the Lord to bless, especially the veterans of the Church, that their remaining days on earth may be filled with peace and joy.

Elder George Smith, a son of Presi-

Elder George Smith, a son of President Joseph E. Smith, spoke an the Swedish language. He presented greetings from President Smith who regretted his inability to be present on account of an appointment that had taken him out of the state. Elder Smith said he had been told in his patriarchal blessing that he was to be a witness to many nations. This had patriarchal blessing that he was to be a witness to many nations. This had been fulfilled. He had an opportunity of preaching in Sweden, Norway, Denmark, England, and thus the prophecy had been literally fulfilled. He was pleased, he said, to have the opportunity of being a missionary in the Scandinavian countries. It was a good field. The speaker then testified to the truth of the gospel.

ELDER O. C. HANSEN. Elder O. C. Hansen, of Mink Creek said he desired to bear his testimony to the truth. He was thankful, he said that the Lord selected the Scandinavian nations among others to hear the gospel message. He was glad to associate with some of the veterans who first received that message, and who had remained faithful during these years. May God bless them abundantly.

ELDER C. M. NIELSEN.

Judge C. M. Nielsen said the characteristic of a true prophet is this that his prophecies are fulfilled. When this happens, the people know that the prophet is called of God. Moroni said to the Prophet Joseph that his name should be known throughout the world and many should hate him. This was spoken when Joseph was hardly known outside his own family. Now the prophecy has been literally fulfilled. If we had no other evidence of his divine mission, this would be enough to establish it. Today the name of Joseph Smith is known throughout the world, as was foretold about him by the angel. The speaker related how he first was selected for the mission field by Canute Peterson 38 years ago. He had had a testimony ever since.

had had a testimony ever since.

ELDER H. P. NIELSEN. Elder H. P. Nielsen expressed his gratitude to God for the privilege of being present on this occasion. He spoke of the inestimable benefits he and his brethren and sisters in the Church had received through the gospel, and he testified to its truth, He closed by praying the Lord to bless the children of the Latter-day Saints, that the spirit of truth may rest upon them. the spirit of truth may rest upon ther as upon their fathers and mothers, ELDER E. C. HENDRICKSEN. ELDER E. C. HENDRICKSEN.

Elder E. C. Hendricksen of Provo, referred to the beautiful duet. "O My Father," just rendered, as one full of inspiration and power. He spoke of the work established by Erastus Snow in the northern countries. The Scandinavians, he said, loved that servant of the Lord, and the men and women who first carried the message to them. He mentioned many of the prominent veterans, such as C. Larsen, C. C. A. Christensen, A. Winberg, President Anthon H. Lund, Bohn and others, whose names, he said will live for ever in the annals of the Church.

ELDER ADAM PEDERSEN.

Elder Adam Pedersen of Huntsville aid he was not ashamed of the Gospel said he was not ashamed of the Gospe nor of the Scandinavian people. He considered what the Gospel had don for him and for others, and he was grateful for the great gift. When the grateful for the great gift. When the Prophet was called to establish the Church, there were many churches, but they did not have the truth. Through the Gospel we have learned something of God, our Father, and about His plan of salvation. A revolution has been effected in the world through the revelations given to that prophet. And this truth, he said, is the power of God to salvation. It has saved us from to salvation. It has saved us from the thraidom of sin and vice. He ex pressed the hope that we all may remain faithful.

PRESIDENT A. H. LUND. President Lund read a telegram from Andrew Jenson and O. J. Anderson, from Copenhagen, congratulating the Saints in Utah.

Saints in Utah.

He then said he had rejoiced in the meetings during this reunion. He referred to the settlement of Utah by the ploneers. They had come here, he said, driven from the confines of civilization. From here, though they were destitute, they sent out missionaries both east and west. Einstus Snow and P. O. Hansen were sent to Denmark and John Forsgreen to Sweden. "What a glorious work has been accomplished through them!" The speaker referred to the time when they had received the gospel and felt a speaker referred to the time when they had received the gospel and felt a desire to go to Zion. But many were poor and had no means. However, those who had money were willing to assist the others. And such men, he said, deserve to be remembered. Referring to the immigration to Zion, he said, those who have come here to serve the Lord, have found Zion here. President Lund said the Lord had President Land said the Lord had always raised up the kind of men needed in the mission—strong, and fearings. For instance Canute Peterson and C. C. A. Christensen, both young and C.C.A. Christensen, both young men then, had on one occasion met eighteen clergymen and defended the truth so successfully that even the newspapers admitted the defeat of the newspapers admitted the defeat of the learned men. He mentioned a number of men who had been raised up. Among them were Willard Snow, Widerborg, P. O. Thomasen, Jesse Smith, William Cluff, Canute Petersen, O. J. Larsen, E. Flygare, C. D. Fjeldsted, Edward H. Anderson, Joseph Christiansen, Andreas Peterson, A. L. Skancky, J. M. Christensen, C. N. Lund, Nils Wilhelmsen, O. N. Liljengulst, and many others, some of whom have presided over the mission and performed a good work. He closed by wishing the blessings of God to rest over the Scandinavian Saints.

President Lund then invited all present to the organ recital in the tabernacle. He then pronounced the benediction and blessed the people. And thus was closed a reunion that had been a spiritual feast to all whose privilege it was to attend.

graduate. The White House information today was to the effect that Congress might adjourn on Saturday of next week. There is, of course, a chance that this program may be upset, especially as the president is insisting that the statehood bills shall be enacted into law before adjournment.

statehood bills shall be enacted into law before adjournment.

President Tart yesterday sent for Senator Beveridge of Indiana and told him he desired statehood at this session for New Mexico and Arizona. This morning the president had a further conference with Senator Dick of Olito, a member of the territories committee, of which Mr. Beveridge is chairman. Gov. Sloan of Arizona also was at the White House today.

Ctab. Gives Testimony.

Kansas City. June 14.—Miss Hannah Wesseling of the government food lab-cratory. Chicago, was the first witness called today in the bleached flour casebeing tried in the United States court here. She brought into court biscuits of her own baking.

Miss Wesseling was a teacher of chemistry in a Cincinnati medical college before she entered the government's service.

The biscuits which were introduced in evidence had been made by Miss Wesseling from some of the flour selized by the government. Those which had been subjected to the Griess reagent test were pink. Biscuits made from unbleached flour subjected to the same test retained their normal color. Mis Wesseling said the pink color indicate the presence of nitrates.
